EXPLOSION WILL COST

DUPONTS $2,500,000

Company Will Not Pay For Shattered Nerves.

Kenosha, Wis., March 22. A summary of the cost of the Dupont De Nemours Powder Company caused by the explosion last Thursday night of the mills at Pleasant Prairie, including repairs to broken glass in cities along the lake shore and in this vicinity, brings the figure to $2,500,000.

The officials of the powder company announced that they would pay nothing for shattered nerves unless the victims can win suits in court. In cases where persons whose property was damaged refuse to accept a cash settlement, the powder company will make the repairs at its own expense.

Mrs. Cole Wins Diamond.

In the voting contest for the diamond ring given away to the most popular lady in Mannsville, at the Rock Hall in this city last Saturday night by the Plant Juice Advertising Company, Mrs. Susie Cole received the largest number of votes and the ring. There were several young ladies nominated, but the race soon narrowed down to only two contestants, Mrs. Cole and Miss Pearl Rich. The vote stood, Miss Rich, 3,800; Mrs. Cole, 57,100. Some Crying Needs.

We are not suffragettes, nor even suffragists, but common sense tells us that a few improvements are needed in Marion and if we never ask for them we will never get them.

First—A way to locate a fire when the alarm is given and thus save men and women a lot of needless anxiety.

Second—A park where both young and old may go for both relaxation and fresh air.

Third—A taller chimney for the incinerator or else condemn it as a public nuisance.

Fourth—A new depot for Marion, an absolute necessity, as the old one has out-lived its usefulness and no longer accommodates the traveling public.

Fifth—A general spring cleaning and sanitation for the town and vicinity, and the placing of the long deferred waste baskets on the street corners.

Now that the projects are launched, (by the women) we hope the good citizens may carry them to completion, thereby adding to the comfort of the people, arousing civic pride and

Ninety-Nine Years for John Riley

At 3 o'clock Tuesday evening the jury in case of the Commonwealth against John Riley, brought in a verdict of guilty for the killing of his brother, Ed Riley, and fixed his punishment at ninety-nine years in the State penitentiary.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Don't forget Byron W. King, March 29, and the Art Exhibit March 30 to April 1. Auditorium.

Rev. and Mrs. Grant Hughes were blessed with the addition of a daughter to their household last Wednesday night.

John Wilborn of Ada, Oklahoma, is here on a visit. He is interested in some attractive deals in Oklahoma land, for those wishing to remove there.

Walter McConnell accompanied by his brother, Clyde, and mother, Mrs. T. J. McConnell left Sunday for Elora, Ind., where on Tuesday he was united in marriage to Miss Ethel Trenary.

Mrs. Margaret Wright left Monday afternoon for Morganfield to visit her two sons, Edward and Marion Smart. She will return the latter part of the week.

Dr. T. A. Frazer Complimented.

A few weeks ago we published for Dr. Frazer, the county health officer an article on "Vital Statistics" which was commented on favorably all over the state. Last week we received a copy of the "Bulletin of the state board of health," published at Bowling Green, and Dr. Frazer received a letter from W. S. Heizer the Editor in which he says, "I read with great pleasure your article in the Crittenden Record-Press and deemed it so superior to any any other article appearing in the various papers of the state that I incorporated it in this Bulletin.

I trust you will pardon my using it without your written consent but it of so much value to the public that I did not care to risk your refusing me the privilege."

The Art Exhibit.

The date for the Turner Art Exhibit has been postponed from March 22 to March 30. Beginning March 30 it will continue three days. The Exhibit will be held in the Auditorium from three to five-thirty in the afternoon and from seven-fifteen to nine-thirty at night. On Saturday April 1, the Exhibit will open at one o'clock in the afternoon.

This will be a rare opportunity for all art lovers. Let the children come and get ideas of beauty that will affect their whole lives.

Catalogues may be had at the school house at three-thirty every day before the Exhibit.

Season tickets—50 cents.

Single admission—15 cents.

School children, Season—25 cents. School children, Single admission 10 cents.

If a farmer does his joy riding on a manure spreader this time of year he will have more money next fall to buy gasoline for joy riding in his automobile.

DAWSON SPRINGS

Plans To Build System of Water-Works.

Paducah, Ky., March 22. (Special.)—The city council of Dawson Springs has decided to build a waterworks system that will cost approximately $15,000. The plans are being drawn in Paducah by W. D. King, Harry O. Moss and Clyde Bell of the Paducah engineering department. J. W. Holmet, superintendent of the Paducah water plant is consulting engineer. A survey of the town has just been made and the system will have about 10,000 feet of mains;

The waterworks will be operated from a gravity reservoir located at the top of the hill southeast of Dawson. Water will be pumped from three wells and the pressure will almost equal that of the Paducah system. The wells have been bored and the water pronounced excellent by experts. Dawson is taking on its spring attire and great preparations are being made for this season's business at this popular health resort.

When Dawson Springs can do such things, why not Marion, which is a hundred per cent better town in every way. —Ed

INFLAMMATION AND PAIN

Cared by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oreston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pain, in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."—Mrs. Wm. Seals, 605 W. Howard St., Oreston, Iowa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

Forty-Three Miles ON SODIUM SALT.
Leslie's Weekly

At many points on the line of the new Western Pacific railroad from Salt Lake City to San Francisco there was not room enough in the canon for both river and railroad, and solid walls of masonry had to be built to carry the tracks above the stream.

At other points the sharp curves in the canon have sent the tracks back and forth from one side to the other on steel bridges and high trestles. In building the line material and workmen frequently had to be let down on the sides of the canon by ropes hundreds of feet in length to start construction on new sections. Wagon roads are everywhere impossible. At last after endless turnings and twists in fighting its way through 150 miles of the canon the tracks come out into the broad valley at Oreville, over which four countless ages the Feather River has poured debris from its mountain fastnesses. So much gold did the river bring down that the soil down to the solid bedrock is being dug up by degrees and washed for its gold. Large tracts of land given over to olives, oranges and other fruits are being now torn to pieces in the ceaseless hunt for gold, which is being found in such quantities that the miners are beginning to rival in their wealth the pioneers in the gold fields of the State.

In contrast to this long stretch of canon scenery is the great salt desert through which the new road runs leaving Salt Lake City. This desert is sixty miles long and fifteen miles wide, composed of rock salt 95 per cent pure.

Right through the center of it the engineers of the road ran their lines, and for forty-six miles there is not a curve in the tracks. The ties are laid on a bed of solid salt two or three feet above the level of the plain. The salt looks like a field of ice and snow and it is difficult for the traveler to realize that his train is not passing through a wintry scene of the far North.

T. Y. ORDWAY,

BREEDER OF

Saddle & Harness Horses.

FREDONIA, KY.

ALL HORSES POSITIVELY REGISTERED

To Raisers and Breeders Of Fine Stock.

I will stand at my stables during season of 1911, the following well bred and well known stock, as a standard of excellence.

CHESTER DENMARK 1950.

This fine horse was sired by Washington Denmark No. 641, he by Gainer Denmark No. 61, his dam was Annie D. No. 4024, she by Barbon King No. 1746. Chester Denmark is a bay and scores 84 points, 16 1-2 hands high, fine saddle & harness horse, and registered in the American Roadster Register Vol. II, by J. H. Cambell March 17, 1908.

KING ECLIPSE 5803.

King Eclipse is a brown, 16 hands high, weight 1250 lbs. and well made, foaled April 10, 1905; bred by C. A. Jordan, Gibson, Ill., got by Hick Gold-dust, 4593, son of Hickory Joe 4592, by Bean's Hickory Boy 4169, son of Hickory Boy 1107, by Neal Dow 1106, son of Lightfoot 1105, by Black Hawk 20, dam Pearl, bay, bred by C. A. Jordan, got by Agitator, son of Gov. Sprague; 2nd dam Fleetmont, gray, bred by G. & C. P. Cecil, Danville, Ky., got by Strathmore, son of Strathmont; 3rd dam Lady Merston, bay, said to be by Gray Eagle (Cavanaugh's.) Registered Sept. 16, 1908, in American Morgan Register, Vol. III.

GEORGE 2957.

Foaled May 30, 1900. Bred by Hir Witte, Germany. Imported by Oltmans Bros. of Watseka, Ill. George is a beautiful dark brown, of splendid style and action, 16 1-2 hands high, weight 1350 lbs. and one of the finest registered German Coach Horses in Kentucky, and a prize winner at the World's Fair, St. Louis, in 1904. His colts are well formed, of good style and action, and possess the good qualities of the sire.

EAGLE.

Eagle is a steel gray, 15 hands high, has as fine bone and body as any jack. His colts have exceptionally fine style and bone. He was sired by Bradley, a black jack, he by Whitsell's Phillip, a black blue-grass jack. The dam of Eagle was sired by Marion Walker's fine black jack Mike, one of the best strains of jacks in Kentucky.

STARLIGHT JUMBO.

Starlight Jumbo was foaled Nov. 6th, 1908. Sired by Bob Hughes, well known as one of the best breeding jacks ever in the State of Kentucky. Dam Maggie Jumbo, by Kentucky Jumbo 3837. Maggie Jumbo is out of an imported jennette, Starlight Jumbo is 15 hands high, black with white points, weight 900 lbs., and coming 3 years old. He is a fine jack for breeding purposes.

The foregoing described stock will make the season of 1911 at my stable in Fredonia, Ky., at $10. to insure living foal, and I am glad to say, if you consider good blood in horses (and it shows as much in horses as it does in people) you can not afford to pass without taking a chance, and remember the chance costs you absolutely nothing if you don't get something. I try to treat all alike and fair, and promise to do all in my power to deliver the desired goods. Give me a chance and I'll appreciate it, and can't believe you will ever regret it. Mares from a distance kept reasonable. My motto is "No Colt No Pay."

On Saturday Sept. 2nd 1911, I will give a colt show for the foals of 1911. Will offer three liberal prizes for three best colts sired by any one of my three stallions, Chester Denmark, King Eclipse, or George.

A 1st prize for the best colt by either stallion.
A 2nd prize for 2nd best colt by either stallion.
A 3rd prize for the third best colt by either stallion.
One prize for the best mule colt by either of my jacks.
I shall conduct this show on a fair and honest basis, by having three, honest, out-of-town, and disinterested parties for judges.
Now I expect to continue these colt shows each fall, so keep your colt in good condition and continue to breed with T. Y. ORDWAY, if you haven't tried him, get in the BAND-WAGON and always be happy.

Yours to Please.

T. Y. ORDWAY.

Critically Ill.

Uncle Billy Padon, of Hampton, who is nearly 75 years, is very low and his many friends are very apprehensive for his ultimate recovery. He is reported as being some better at this writing and we trust he will continue to improve. He is a very prominent farmer, church member and stockholder in several of our county banks. Thoroughly honest and greatly beloved by all who know him.—Livingstone Banner.

THE CONTENT AND MOTIVE OF THE ELEMENTARY CURRICULUM.

By F. D. STONE, Davies Co.

There has been a spirit of unrest in regard to matters of education from the very beginning of our public school system. This spirit of unrest has been the result of our inadequate educational system, inasmuch as it does not furnish such mental development as can be practiced in rural life. This spirit of unrest is still in operation, trying to develop the schools into institutions that will more fully meet the needs of the mass. For a long time it was the secondary schools that received attention of the educators, but now attention has shifted to the elementary schools as well. This spirit of unrest spread from Germany to England, and thence to America, where such men as Dr. G. Stanley Hall, Dr. Wm. T. Harris, Col. Francis W. Parker, Pres. Chas. W. Eliot and thousands of others were eager to grasp the "new learning" as it were, and demand something in our schools that shall be real and vital, rather than artificial or indifferent.

There is a general agreement as to the most important fundamental principles underlying our educational structure. It is only when we as individuals put the principles into practice, that a serious inadequacy is discovered. The purpose of the school has been clearly stated and almost universally accepted. In actual practice the work has not competed with the stated purpose of the school. It, seemingly, has not recognized the fact that its present stated development does not meet the requirements in future citizenship.

As our schools do not meet the demands of the mass for rural citizenship, they find instead, work better suited and practically fail to enter a higher mental development in the secondary schools. With the proper adjustment of elementary courses, a great mass of the boys and girls, who leave before high school age, would enter high school and be much better prepared to meet the strenuous problems with which they are sure to come in contact. To reach the great mass of pupils, or rather to keep them in school, is the problem that we are now facing. To solve this problem, consists in the placing of such subjects in the curriculum as will give the pupils such information as can be put into practice. By this, I do not mean to augment the curriculum, but to eliminate such that is not practicable and insert practicable ones.

To continue the nearly same subject, I wish to repeat that it would be inexpedient to add anything to our over-full curriculum without some elimination. Better to relax the impractical part and introduce some practical subjects. Let's have a filtering out of some subjects; or portions of subjects, so that we may teach the essentials far better. Let us introduce agriculture and industrial arts, etc.

Our schools, for the most part, have been inadequate, from the fact that the minor schools have been depending on arranging their course of study to suit or meet the needs of the larger schools, rather than for the good of their own environment. They, perhaps, have been dominated by their obligations to the larger ones, inasmuch as the students could not enter the secondary schools unless they had done a certain kind and prescribed course of study. By these means the development of the smaller schools was prevented.

A great part of the arithmetic that is now taught in the school would naturally come to the student without the aid of teacher or school if we would only be patient. As a rule too many things are taught to the boy while in school that will never be of use to him elsewhere. It has also been suggested that adjustment is needed in language as well as arithmetic. One of the chief functions of the elementary school is to give the child a desire for reading, and an appreciation of good literature. To train in the use of simple and correct language is indeed a necessity. But above all else the boy or man who is not a lover of good books, who does not put himself in touch with the best literature and who does not draw inspiration, enthusiasm and power, has been robbed of the best that the school can give. That these may be wrought out to fulfill the law of individual activity, and to have their effect in making or marring human happiness, there must be expression. We cannot know what a man's thoughts are, or his ideals or his character, except as these are made known to us through his words and acts. His true thoughts, his real character, may not be expressed always, but something that has been thought and felt in him shows forth in expression.

Dr. Dewey said that "the curriculum should be so selected and organized as to provide the material for affording the child a consciousness of the world in which he has to play his part, and the relations he has to meet." Accepting this, we must admit that the garden, shop and farm would be best to furnish these results. Dr. Elliot said, "I believe there is more value in manual labor than in nine-tenths of the arithmetic in the schools." Again, "I believe there is as much mental training in 'manual work' as in any book whatsoever."

The importance of the personality of the teacher cannot be overestimated. The influence of the teacher is so great upon the children under his care, either for good or evil, that it is of the utmost importance to them as well as to himself that his personality be unexceptionable. It is the teacher's sphere to improve the community in which he moves, not only in learning but in morals and manners; everything that is lovely and of good report. The teacher should be a model. "Happy is the man whose habits are his friends." It were well if all persons before becoming instructors, would attend to their personal habits.

"NO RIGHTS AGAINST THE LAW OF GOD."

Cardinal Gibbons Preaches on Evils of Divorce.

Baltimore March 22.—In his sermon, delivered at the Cathedral this morning, Cardinal Gibbons spoke strongly against the evils of divorce, saying in part:

"It is Christianity the highest type of civilization—and who can deny it—then is it not true that we are retrograding instead of advancing on certain lines?"

"There is a social scourge more blighting and more destructive of family life than Mormonism. It is the fearfully increasing number of divorce mills throughout the United States. These mills, like the mills of the gods, are slowly but surely grinding to powder the domestic altars of the nation. Husband and wife are separated on the most flimsy pretexts. And as if the different States of the Union were not sufficiently accommodating in this respect, one State has the unenviable distinction of granting a bill of divorce for the mere asking of it on the sole condition of a brief sojourn within its borders."

"A lady, prominent in society life, once said to me in Newport: 'I do not recognize any law, human or divine, that can deprive a husband or wife of the right to separate and to enter a fresh espousal when they do not live in harmony to-gether.'"

"You speak," I replied, "of your rights, your privileges. But you have not a word to say of your duties and obligations."

"Ah, my brethren, if men and women had due consideration for their duties and responsibilities their rights would take care of themselves. There can be no rights where there are no corresponding obligations. There are no rights against the law of God."

THE GREAT GUEST COMES.

While the cobbler mused, there passed his pane a beggar drenched by the driving rain; he called him in from the stony street and gave him shoes for his bruised feet. The beggar went, and there came a crane her face with wrinkles of sorrow; a bundle of faggots bowed her back, and she was spent with the wench and rack. He gave her his loaf and steadied her load as she took her way on the weary road. Then to his door came a little child, lost and afraid in the world so wild, in the big, dark world. Catching it up, he gave it the milk in the waiting cup, and led it home to its mother's arms, out of the reach of the world's alarms. The day went down in the crimson west, and with it the hope of the blessed Guest; and Conrad sighed as the world turned gray: "Why is it, Lord, that your feet delay? Did you forget that this was the day?" Then, soft in the silence a voice was heard: "Lift up your heart, for I kept my word. Three times I came to your friendly door, three times my shadow was on your door; I was the beggar with bruised feet; I was the woman you gave to eat; I was the child on the homeless street."

"TELL US NOT IN MOURNFUL NUMBERS."

Tell us not in idle jingle "marriage is but an empty dream," for the girl is dead that's single, and things are not what they seem. Life is real, life is earnest, single blessedness a fib; "Man thou art, to man returneth" has been spoken of the rib. Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way, but to act that each to-morrow finds us nearer marriage day. Life is long and youth is fleeting, and our hearts, though light and gay, still like pleasant drums are beating wedding marches all the day. In the world's broad fields of battle, in the bivouac of life, not like dumb driven cattle—be a heroine—a wife! Trust no future, however pleasant; let the dead past bury its dead; act—act in the living present, heart with in and hope ahead. Lives of married folks remind us we can live our lives as well, and, departing leave behind us such examples as shall "tell"—such examples that another, wasting time in idle sport, a forlorn, unmarried brother seeing, shall take heart and court. Let us, then, be up and doing, with a heart on triumph set; still contriving, still pursuing, and each one a husband get.

COMPARES WOODROW WILSON TO LINCOLN

Ollie James Speaks at Kentucky Banquet in New York.

New York, March 21.—(Special.)

At the seventh annual banquet of the Kentuckians to-night at the Hotel Plaza, 380 men and women listened to Gov. Dix, of New York, and Gov. Wilson, of New Jersey, Representative Ollie M. James, of Kentucky, and Judge Charles F. Russell, of Virginia, speak.

It was the largest dinner in the history of the association and was in the nature of a Lincoln birthday celebration and a testimonial to Justice Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court. The Justice was unable to attend, however, on account of illness in his family. Gov. Dix devoted the greater part of his speech to a tribute to Lincoln.

"I was born in Virginia," said Gov. Woodrow Wilson, "but I wish I had been born in Kentucky. Being born in Kentucky seems to me to be one of the greatest compliments that can be paid any man. Kentucky was part of the frontier of the country. Today there are frontiers in politics, and these frontier difficulties must be overcome. By so doing a new territory can be reached in Democracy. The business of Kentucky was to drive out arbitrary power in the nation. This remains to be accomplished in politics."

The Hon. Ollie M. James said in part: "Our friend from Virginia spoke of revision downward; that phrase has been foisted with so much that when we hear it everyone thinks it means the other way. Joe Blackburn used to say, 'I like Kentucky, it has the finest whisky, the prettiest women and the fastest horses in the world.'"

"Abraham Lincoln was born in old Kentucky, we gave him to Illinois and they gave him to the nation. He was the best friend the South ever had, and I've a right to speak of the South. It was not against Abraham Lincoln that the South would invade; it was the scallywag and carpetbagger that murdered and pillaged in the name of liberty. It was not Sherman's march to the sea, but that miserable wretch who took advantage of the helpless, penniless and almost hopeless people, that embittered the South. If Abraham Lincoln had lived he would have nursed back the bleeding South into the Union. We do need in the United States some Abraham Lincoln, some man who is the voice of Democracy like our friend Wilson, of New Jersey."

The Livingstone Banner says of our countyman Representative Marion F. Pogue:

"More than a year ago the Democratic County Committee of this County waived the right of Livingston to furnish the next representative from this district in order to give Crittenden's brave and noble son a chance to be inducted. To that action no protest from any source has ever appeared. There should be none from anywhere, because the old time custom of alternating every two years, or every term was not a good one, as one term does not give a man time to even know how to get to and away from Frankfort, more especially since the State Capital has been removed down into LaRue county. No better man ever represented any people unless possibly it is Big Ollie James, than Marion Pogue. He is faithful, earnest, honest and true to the interest of the great common people and there is no sort of doubt about his being able to succeed himself if any democrat in Kentucky can be elected next fall, Marion has stood for what he thought was right on all matters and things and there is no reason why the two Committees of the two counties should not get together and take steps to make his nomination sure, or at least take steps in some direction in the premises. We have never heard of any objection to Mr. Pogue in any way, nor have we ever heard of any objection to the action of our Committee or that of Crittenden in endorsing the idea of making a change of the manner of alternating every term and alternate every other term or four years. We would suggest that the Committees of the two counties get busy."

The Livingston Banner Editor might have said further more, he stood for a school system that was fair alike to taxpayers and pupils, giving every child in the state equal advantages; the bill which passed the House of Representatives being largely the result of his labors. He stood against graft and extravagance, against salary grabs, and place making. He helped to kill the governors pet project of a bond issue, stood like a stone wall against a raise in the tax rates and was one of the committee on Rules which originated the interest bearing Warrant Bill which will soon wipe out the states indebtedness and not leave a 30 year bonded debt hanging over the heads of the taxpayers and there are many more things he did for the good of the people. He is one of them and don't know anything else, and what more he is honest which means more than anything else. If a man of M. F. Pogue's ability and native genius were to take to graft and dishonest methods he would be a most dangerous element in our public affairs, but knowing him as we do we feel safe in saying, dishonesty is one shoal on which his political bark will never founder.

Dr. Mather returned home on Thursday last after filling several important engagements at Berea, Ky., and other cities. He reports having preached twice on Sunday last in the Chapel erected by Miss Helen Gould for Berea College, his congregations, consisting of the faculty and students, and citizens of the town, numbering about two thousand at each service. Dr. Mather also lectured on Monday morning last to the College students on 'The greatness of Human Nature,' afterwards being entertained at lunch, in company with Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, the 'hero of the Merrimac,' by President and Mrs. Frost, heads of the wonderful Institution at Berea.

Dr. Mather says that the enrollment at the College is by far the largest of any college of the state, and that there are over fifteen hundred young men and women in attendance at present. After spending several hours in Louisville on Tuesday, and declining an invitation from the Commercial Club to attend a special function at the Louisville Hotel, Dr. Mather journeyed to Irvington in Breckinridge county, and there delivered a lecture on Tuesday night in the Chapel of Irvington College to the students and citizens of that town, a large number of which turned out to hear him, the crowd filling the chapel.

This latter institution owes its existence almost entirely to Dr. Mather, and is the outcome of a great campaign which he made 2 years ago in Breckinridge Co., in the cause of education. Through his influence the city donated a location of fourteen acres, and a few gentlemen joined in providing some seven or eight thousand dollars for the erection of a College Building in which today 114 students from various parts of the county are receiving, classical, commercial, normal, and musical training, according to their tastes. Every week sees the matriculation of new students, and the outlook is very promising. Dr. Mather is, of course, very proud of the institution, and looks for it to have a great future.

Missing his connection at Henderson on Wednesday Dr. Mather preached at the prayer meeting service at the First Methodist church there.

IN SOCIETY

St. Patrick Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Russell entertained Friday evening in honor of the patron Saint of Ireland at their home on North Main street. Among those bidden were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Orme, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Rochester, Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Mather, Judge and Mrs. J. W. Blue, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Dupuy, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Crider, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Gray, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Nunn, Mrs. Miles Flannery, Mrs. Henri Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stone, Rev. and Mrs. B. W. Yates, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pollard. On arrival each guest was given a shamrock and after all had arrived the hostess read an original sketch of the life of St. Patrick, which was most interesting and this was responded to and commented on by Rev. Mather in an entertaining way.

Each guest had come prepared to tell jokes on the nation which has become immortalized on account of its wit and each one tried to out-do the other in that line, which kept up outbursts of laughter as each one finished.

There were many rare and racy gems resurrected and when all had exhausted their store it was a little uncertain as to which was the winner. Rev. Mather or Judge Blue.

The hostess served most delightful refreshments consisting of scalloped minced turkey, beaten biscuit, pickle, salad, fruit, gelatine and cake.

The house was decorated suitably to the occasion, shamrocks and evergreens being in evidence ever where.

The occasion was enjoyed by all who attended and certainly was an oasis in the social desert which the observance of Lent always brings at this season.

On Friday evening, at eight o'clock, Misses Isabelle Guess and Louise Clement were at home to their friends at the residence of J. I. Clement on South Main street. All of the younger set were asked, and all responded heartily to the invitation to join in a celebration for the good old St. Patrick's.

The halls and parlors, of the Clement home, were filled with merry young folks. Progressive conversation was the feature of the evening. The programs being embossed with the Irish Harp and the Shamrock.

At a late hour Misses Evalyn and Marian Clement served the guests with a light luncheon, consisting of astoria sandwiches tied with green cords, pickles, green and white brick cream, green cake and candies. The dining room was elaborately decorated, the color scheme of course being green; the lace curtains were covered with Shamrocks; the table was loaded with green carnations and festooned with green garlands; the favors were truly Irish and suitable for the occasion.

Those who enjoyed this pleasant entertainment were: Mamie Haynes, Lucien Walker, Mary Gilbert, Robert Jenkins, Ruth Flannery, Earle Clement, Clara Hammack, Galen Dixon, Ruth Croft, Medley Cannan, Hazel Pollard, Bert Yates, Mildred Moore, Jamie Moore, Lucile Pope, Arnold Driskill, Linda Jenkins, Ted Boston, Nelle Olive, Ira Sutherland, Virginia Blue, Geo. Orme, Ruth Haynes, Jesse Olive, Joe Walker, Guthrie Flannery, Harry Babb, Maurie Nunn and Douglas Clement.

Historic Home Destroyed In Which Chief Justice Nunn Was Married ed in 1869.

Wednesday, March 15th, about five o'clock during a terrific wind and dust storm which had been blowing all day the news reached here that the Clement home, eight miles south of the city, where F. M. (Maj) Clement lived and died was on fire.

J. I. Clement the present owner of the premises was at his home in this city when the news was phoned to him.

It caught fire some way in the roof or attic and was too far gone to save when discovered. The smoke house and some negro cabins in the yard also burned, but the family supply of meat was saved. The house which was a two-story frame was insured. Harry Hale owned the house. It was built by Newell on Clement before the war, and in it Chief Justice Nunn was married in 1869. About forty years ago, F. M. Clement became the owner and lived there until his death last year. In the seventies when his daughters were young ladies it was the scene of many pleasant and notable gatherings and at no place was hospitality extended more generously.

Birthday Party at G. D.

Kemp's Near Iron Hill.

Tuesday evening when George Kemp came in from work, he was surprised to find all his children gathered there excepting Miss Alpha, who is here attending school, and in addition Misses Ellie Brown and Mae Travis, to celebrate his forty-ninth birthday. There was Lela, who lives at home, Ben Drennan and wife, Fred Brown, wife, son and daughter, and Dr. W. C. Kemp, of Luzon, Webster county, his wife and two daughters. All brought gifts suitable to the occasion and as a result George turns into his fiftieth year feeling as happy as a boy. They all spent the night at the old home and enjoyed mother's good cooking once more, and were a happy re-united family.

ARE YOU DEAF?

Catarh is Probably The Cause. Get Rid of The Cause.

If you have catarh and have constant ringing noises in your ears look into the matter at once.

It's a pretty sure sign that catarh is spreading and is making its way through the Eustachian tubes that lead from the nose to the ears.

When catarh gets to the ears partial deafness follows. If you have ringing noises in your ears go to Haynes & Taylor today and get a HYOMEI outfit and drive out catarh. To cure catarh HYOMEI should be breathed through a pocket inhaler for about three minutes, four or five times a day. Just pour a few drops into the hard rubber inhaler and breathe it for a few minutes.

It kills the germs; soothes the irritation; heals the inflammation; stops hacking, spitting and snuffling.

HYOMEI keeps the throat free from mucus and prevents crusts in nose.

The complete HYOMEI outfit which includes the little indestructible hard rubber inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI and simple instructions for use costs $1.00. Separate bottles of HYOMEI cost 50 cents at druggists everywhere, or at Haynes & Taylor's who sell it on money back plan. Try it today for catarh, coughs, colds or sore throat. Free trial bottle by addressing Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. M25 A6.

IS MOTHER LOVE BLIND ALSO

They say that lovers' love is blind, and I want to add that the love of some mothers is blind.

Mother love is the sweetest, tenderest thing in the world, but like all other good things, it can be overcome—and mother love is overcome when a mother absolutely blind to the fact that her children have any faults.

There are women who have positively made themselves laughing stock among their acquaintances by their utter blindness to the faults of their children. You can pass no compliment upon any one of her children without her giving an oration upon their good behavior, their brilliancy, their thoughtfulness, etc. Tell her any fault that one of her children possesses and she will laugh at the idea.

I wonder if this mother realizes what a serious injustice she is doing not only to those children, but herself. In letting the children think that they are models of perfection and in never correcting them, she is spoiling them. And what kind of men or women will they be or can they possibly turn out to be? This fact will sadden any mother's life when those children have grown up.

Is this sort of a mother to be pitied or blamed? She is to be pitied in that she is so blind, but she is to be blamed for allowing herself to be so blind.

Anyway, we're glad that there are a majority of good, kind mothers in comparison to the mother I have just spoken of, but we are sorry that there ARE some of this type that necessitates our speaking of them.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Zion Hill Lodge, No. 371, F. and A. M., Weston, Ky.

Whereas, it has pleased the supreme architect of the universe, in His almighty wisdom, to remove from our midst our true and beloved brother, Robt. Heath, who was born May 15th, 1815, and departed this life Mar. 6th, 1911, his age ninety-five years, nine months and twenty-one days, and was a Mason sixty years. The lodge has lost a loyal member, the community an honorable up-right citizen and his family an affectionate husband and father.

Whereas, we extend to the bereaved family our kindest regards and deepest sympathy in the loss of one who was untiring in his efforts to provide for their comfort and commend them to God as the only source of consolation.

Resolved, that these resolutions be placed on our Lodge record, a copy sent to the family of the deceased brother, and a copy sent the Crittenden Record-Press for publication.

Like a leaf on the current cast With never a break in the rapid flow.

We watch them as one by one they go Into the beautiful past.

WESTON

(Delayed from last week.)

W. O. W. Camp, of this place, is growing rapidly. They rolled in two logs Saturday night by transfer. One from Marion, Ky., and other from East Prairie, Mo. M. A. Wilson was appointed as a delegate to meet with the W. O. W. boys at Madisonville Tuesday and Wednesday. Every camp has its workers who are greatly responsible for the rapid growth of the Order. They are ready at all times to lend a hand. Remember, we can not expect good men to fall over each other in an effort to join the Craft. They want to know what they are joining, what kind of men they are associating with. You are a sample and it is up to you to show your fraternalism and good fellowship. Hurrah boys, keep the logs rolling.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Daughtry and children were guests of her aunt, Mrs. Euwell Travis, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Maurice Wilson and baby spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Roy Hughes.

Miss Gertrude Rankin spent the latter part of the week with Mrs. Will Winn.

Albert Walker and family spent Saturday and Sunday with her father, Joseph Hughes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Wilson and son, Delmar Lynn, call at the home of Mrs. Lamb Saturday evening.

Geo. Hughes and wife spent Saturday with their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Grady.

Arthur King, of Rodney, was here last week.

Mrs. James Mattingly was a pleasant caller at the home of M. A. Wilson recently.

We were glad to see aunt Molly Crowell here once more.

A little visitor arrived at the home of M. A. Wilson recently, of which they are proud of the name Catherine Earl.

Ira Robinson and wife, J. N. Swansey and family were royally entertained at the home of James Mattingly Sunday.

Mrs. Della Hughes, of O'possum Ridge, spent Saturday with Mrs. C. W. Grady.

Uncle George Wilson is very low at this writing.

Mrs. Geo. Luther Rankin spent Sunday with her father.

Miss Emma Williams is visiting in Bells Mines neighborhood.

Mrs. John Croker, of Bells Mines, was here Saturday trading.

Among those who went to town are: Messrs. James Mattingly, Tom Dempsey, Matchen Wilson and James Bennett.

Wilson Rankin went to Marion Tuesday.

The Ohio river is rising rapidly at this place.

SUBSTITUTING POCKET BIBLE FOR POCKET PISTOL.

"The Pocket Testament a Substitute for the Pocket Pistol." That's the slogan of the Rev. T. C. Gebauer, of Henderson, field worker in the western district of Kentucky for the State Sunday School Association.

Perhaps you've seen him—a homely, handsome, sweet-faced, smiling serious man. That is to say, he may look homely and serious to you for one moment, but he's bound to look handsome and smiling the moment you begin to know him better.

Dr. Gebauer plans soon to start a campaign to put ten thousand bibles in Kentucky in hip pockets. He doesn't claim that this will be a panacea for all social ills in the State, but he does believe that it will help a lot.

"Ninety per cent of the murders committed in Kentucky at the present time," he says, might be averted "were it not for the fact that people who commit them are illegally carrying pistols. If I could supply such persons with pocket Testaments as substitute for the pocket pistol," says the Rev. Gebauer, "I think I might reduce the murders of the State about 90 per cent. Anyhow I'm going to organize soon a Pocket Testament Brigade in Kentucky. Some places they call them Pocket Testament Leagues. But I am of the opinion that in a State where we have Captains and Colonels and Generals, it would be better to call it a Pocket Testament Brigade. That sounds more military, you know."

Saying this he slips his hand in his pocket and hands you a tiny slip. On it is a tiny sermon on the Bible. It is enclosed in a border and reads as follows:

THE BIBLE.

This Book contains—The mind of God, the state of man, the way of Salvation, doom of sinners, and happiness of believers. Its doctrines are holy, its precepts are binding, its histories are true, and its decisions are unimpeachable. Read it to be wise, believe it to be safe, and practice it to be holy. It contains light to direct you, food to support you, and comfort to cheer you. It is the traveler's map, the pilgrim's staff, the pilot's compass, the soldier's sword, and the Christian's charter. Here Paradise is restored, Heaven opened, and the gates of Hell disclosed. Christ is its grand subject, our good its design, and the glory of God its end. It should fill the memory, rule the heart, and guide the feet. Read it slowly, frequently, prayerfully. It is a mine of wealth, a paradise of glory, and a river of pleasure. It is given you in life, will be open at the judgment, and be remembered for ever. It involves the highest responsibility, rewards the greatest labor, and condemns all who trifle with its holy contents.

Bible a hobby of His.

The Bible is a sort of hobby with Dr. Gebauer. Of course, that isn't extraordinary for a minister, but he probably has urged it's study much more than the ordinary minister. During the eight years that he has been in Sunday school field work in Kentucky, he made the organization of Bible classes and every day labor—a labor of love, so to speak.

"If I can get the people of our State to reading the Bible every day, get them to carrying the Bible in their pockets," he says, "I can make them better citizens and bring them nearer the kingdom of God on earth."

No man realizes more than he, however, that the task before him is a big one. "A cynic jokingly said to me the other day," he says, "and I know that it was the truth, 'Ask your congregation to-day how many of them are carrying Bibles. You'll have to look around considerably and you may count yourself lucky if you see one or two hands up. Ask them how many are carrying pistols. Perhaps no one will raise a hand, but you know and I know that about 50 per cent of them will have them just the same.' That was in a community where shootings and the taking of human life were all too numerous."

Dr. Gebauer, in his kindly way never hesitates to advertise his lustiness. Not long ago a drummer for a liquor house slipped him his card and producing a bottle from his pocket invited the "Reverend Doctor" to take a drink with him—he didn't know that Dr. Gebauer was "the Reverend Doctor" then, but he did know a minute later. He smilingly declined the drink, handed the drummer his card and invited him to come to church and hear him preach that night. The latter courteously accepted the invitation. The next day he came to Dr. Gebauer and offered apologies. "I didn't know you were a minister when I offered you that bottle," he said, "for I'd never have done it." Dr. Gebauer informed him that his apologies were accepted and, handing him a Bible, asked him to take it along and read it during the times when trade was dull.

A Blue Rose

Few men are more interested in Kentucky than this man of God, and he believes that it is on the way upward—religiously, socially, industrially. His own section he is particularly proud of. "With the night-riding era gone," he says, "things are more settled with us now. The farmers have sold their tobacco and they get good prices for it. There are more inducements for people to come to us to make their homes."

Western Kentucky Development. He calls attention to many marks of development.

"In Madisonville," he says, "they're building a new $10,000 pressed brick Christian church. Following the fire at Morganfield a year ago several handsome new two and three-story business blocks are going up and a new Baptist church to cost between $25,000 and $30,000 is being planned. Singis is to have a new $20,000 Presbyterian church. The County High School going up at Hopkinsville will cost between $75,000 and $100,000. Bowling Green's new Western Normal building, erected at a cost of probably $100,000, is a fine structure. Prof. H. H. Cherry is doing a great work there. The coal fields are being constantly developed and such places as, Madisonville, Central City, Henderson and Nortonville are benefiting as a result of their development."

And in Sunday school sentiment the development of which he is directly interested in, Dr. Gebauer finds splendid growth. "Things are looking up," he says. "People are becoming better informed. Organized men's classes are growing. In the Methodist Sunday school, South at Paducah, they have a men's class, taught by Prof. Smith, with 150 members. More people are attending church. Recently in Marion, a town of 1,200 inhabitants, there was found at the morning service 167 men and boys and 236 women and girls—nearly one-third of the population. They attended the three churches of the town, the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian."

A Sunday school organized in a schoolhouse near Griffiths, in Dacess county, last April later occupied a tobacco barn, and is now holding its sessions in a log cabin 15x16 feet. It has an average attendance of between forty and fifty and is planning to build in the spring.

Industrially, the Rev. Gebauer believes, Western Kentucky's greatest need is men of progressive ideas, particularly in the field of agriculture and horticulture. In Henderson and Union counties, under the leadership of men like McCullough, "the apple king," he states, apples are being grown that make those counties promise to rival the States of Washington and Oregon in horticultural lines. He believes that if such ideas were carried out in the field of farming and fruit-growing generally marvelous things could be accomplished in Western Kentucky.

In other words generally speaking, he believes there are extraordinary possibilities for the farm, the factory and the family altar in the section where he's daily devoting his life. He wants to see the time come when it cannot be said of his home State that it is better known for its pistols than its plowshares.

Of Miss Sarah Blue, who is well known where the Morganfield Sun has this to say:

Miss Sarah Blue was the charming hostess to the 42 club on Friday night, the evening proving one of the happiest of this winter's meetings of this much enjoyed game. Four tables were arranged for the players, and after the hours of play, lunch was served on the small tables. A salad lunch was prepared and ready on the plates, and then Mrs. Blue proved her culinary skill by preparing a Welsh rarebit on the chafing dish, serving her guests from the steaming "brew." Miss Clara Cromwell will be next hostess. The players were Misses Lillie McCorkhill, of Louisville; Lillie Blue, Clara Cromwell, Nannie Kate Wilson, Adair Amerson, Willie Thornton, Mabel Williams and Sarah Blue, Messrs. Phil E. Richards, Allen Mason, Lyle Waller, Ray Waller, Thomas Lilly, Landon Flournoy, Wm. Dyer and David Blue.

JUST "YOU."

(Selected.)

You say that the world's misused you.
That everything goes dead wrong.
That the right is not triumphant.
That the weak howl to the strong.
Look up, oh, despairing brother!
Why take such a morbid view?
Don't blame the world to your troubles.
It isn't the world—it's you!
You say that the world oppresses.
That it will never treat you square.
That evil and vice are rampant.
That misery's everywhere.
You argue you have no chances.
Of working your passage through.
Did you ever stop to consider.
It isn't the world—it's you!
You hold that all days are dreary.
That life is a burden here.
That sunshine is never present.
That the world is forlorn and drear.
You say it is cold and cheerless.
And a world that is never true.
But, size things up correctly.
It isn't the world—it's you!
You tell me the world is fickle.
And wicked and harsh and stern.
That everything's set against you.
No matter which way you turn.
But why be so pessimistic?
Get wise to my timely cue:
Don't growl at the world my brother.
It isn't the world—it's you!

Good News

"I write to tell you the good news that Cardui has helped me so much and I think it is just worth its weight in gold," writes Mrs. Mary Marshall, of Woodstock, Ga. "I do hope and trust that ladies who are suffering as I did, will take Cardui, for it has been a God's blessing to me, and will certainly help every lady who is suffering."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

No matter if you suffer from headache, backache, pains in arms, shoulders and legs, dragging-down feelings, etc., or if you feel tired, weary, worn-out and generally miserable—Cardui will help you. It has helped thousands of other weak, sick ladies and if you will only give it a trial, you will be thankful ever after.

Cavanagh, Forest Ranger

CHAPTER VI.
IN THE VIOLENT PAST.

TALKING about Cavanagh was quite too absorbingly interesting to both Lee and Redfield to permit of any study of the landscape, which went by as if dismissed by the chariot wheels of some contemptuous angel. Redfield's eyes were mostly on the road in the manner of the careful auto driver, but when he did look up it was to admire the color and poise of his seat mate, who made the landscape of small account.

She kept the conversation to the desired point. "Mr. Cavanagh's work interests me very much. It seems very important, and it must be new, for I never heard of a forest ranger when I was a child."

"The forester is new, at least in America," he answered. "My dear young lady, you are returned just in the most momentous period in the history of the west. The old dominion—the cattle range—is passing. The supremacy of the cowboy is ended. The cowboy is pushing out. The cowboy is pushing alfalfa and sweating horribly as he listens his hands. Some of the rangers at the moment are men of western training, like Ross, but where McGinnis is now to Uncle Sam. With others that transfer of allegiance is not quite complete, hence the insolence of men like Gregg, who think they can torbid or intimidate these forest guards and so obtain favors. The newer men are college bred, real foresters. But you can't know what it all means till you see Ross or some other ranger on his own bench. We'll make up a little party some day and drop down upon him and have him show us about. It's a lonely life, and so the ranger keeps a good house. Would you like to go?"

"Oh, yes, indeed. I'm eager to get into the mountains. Every night as I see the sun go down over them I wonder what the world is like up there."

"Then he began very deliberately to inquire about her eastern experience. There was not much to tell. In a boyish old town far from Philadelphia, where her aunt lived, she had spent ten years of happy exile. "I was brought here by my father at first," she said. "Mother wrote only short letters, and my father never wrote at all. I didn't know he was dead then. He was always good to me. He wasn't a bad man, was he?"

"No," responded Redfield without hesitation. "He was very like the rest of us, only a little more reckless and a little more partisan, that's all. He was a dashing horseman and a dead shot, and so naturally a leader of these daredevils. He was popular with both sides of the controversy up to the very moment when he went south to lead the invaders against the rustlers."

"What was it all about? I never understood it. What were they fighting about?"

"In a sense it was all very simple. You see, Uncle Sam in his carelessness, doing what has always left his range to the man who got there first. That was the cattleman. At first there was grass enough for us all, but as we both sheels and corrals about water-lug places we came to claim rights on the range. We usually secured by fraud homesteads in the sections containing water and so, gone in hand, stood off the man who came after. Gradually, after much shooting and lawing, we parceled out the range and settled down, covering practically the whole range. But adjustments were not perfect, but our system was working smoothly for us who controlled the range. We had convinced ourselves and pretty nearly everybody else that the state was only fit for cattle grazing and that we were the most competent grazers; furthermore, we were in possession, and no man could come in without our consent."

"However, a very curious law of our own making was our undoing. Of course the 'rustler' or 'hunkin' roller' as we contemptuously called the small farmer, began sifting in here and there in spite of our guns, but he was only a mosquito bite in comparison with the trouble which our cowpunchers stirred up. Perhaps you remember enough about the business to know that an unbranded yearling calf without its mother is called a maverick?"

"Yes, I remember that. It belongs to the man who finds him and brands him."

"Precisely. Now, that law worked very nicely so long as the poor cowboy was willing to catch and brand him for his employer, but it proved a 'joker' when he woke up and said to his fellows, 'We'll brand these mavericks at $5 per head for this or that outfit when the law says they belong to the man who finds them?'"

Lee Virginia looked up brightly. "That seems right to me."

"Ah, yes, but wait! We gentlemen had large herds, and the probabilities were that the calf belonged to some one of us, whereas the cowboy, having no herd at all, saw the maverick belonged to some one's herd. True, the law said it was 'his', but the law did not mean to reward the freebooter. At first that was exactly what it did. Yet only a few outlaws took advantage of it, but hard years came on, the cattle business became less and less profitable, we were forced to lay off our men, and so at last the range swarmed with the cowpunchers. Then came the breakdown in our scheme. The cowboys took to 'mavericking' on their own account. Some of them had the grace to go into partnership with some farmer and so claim a small bunch of cows, but others suddenly and unobtrusively acquired herds of their own. From keeping within the law they passed to violent methods. They slit the tongues of calves for the purpose of separating them from their mothers. Flinding he could not suck, the calf would at last wander away from his dam and so become a maverick. In short, unobtrusively reigned on the range."

"But surely my father had nothing to do with this?"

"No, your father up to this time had been on good terms with everybody. He had a small herd of cattle down the river, which he owned in common with a man named 'Bert.'"

"I remember him."

"He was well thought of by all the big outfits, and when the situation became intolerable and we got together to weed out the rustlers, as these outlaws were called, your father was approached and converted to a belief in drastic measures. He had suffered less than the rest of us because of his small herd and the fact that he was very popular among the cowboys. So far as I was concerned, the use of violent methods revolted me. My training in the east had made me a respecter of the law. 'Change the law,' I said. 'The law is all right,' they replied, 'the trouble is with these rustlers. We'll hang a few of 'em, and that will break up the business.'"

Parts of this story came back to the girl's mind, producing momentary flashes of perfect recollection. She heard again the voices of excited men arguing over and over the question of "mavericking," and she saw her father as he rode up to the house that last day before he went south.

Redfield went on. "The whole plan as developed was silly, and I wonder still that Ed Wetherford, who knew the 'rustler' and the cowboy so well, should have lent his aid to it. The cattleman, some from Cheyenne, some from Denver and a few from New York and Chicago, agreed to finance a sort of vigilante corps composed of men from the outside on the understanding that this policing body should be commanded by one of their own number. Your father was chosen second in command and was to guide the party, for he knew almost every one of the rustlers and could ride directly to their doors."

"I wish he hadn't done that," murmured the girl.

"I must be frank with you, Virginia. I can't excuse that in him. It was a kind of treachery. He must have been warped by his associates. They convinced him by some means that it was his duty, and one day the Fort was started by a messenger who rode in to say that the cattle barons were coming with a hundred Texas bad men to clean out the town and to put their own men into office. This last was silly not to me, but the people believed it."

The girl was frowning now. "I remember! I remember the men who rode into the town to give the alarm. I was scared almost breathless."

"I was in Sulphur City and did not hear of it till it was nearly all over," Redfield resumed, his speech showing a little of the excitement which thrilled through the girl's voice. "Well, the first act of vengeance was so ill considered that it practically ended the whole campaign. The invaders fell upon and killed two ranchers, one of whom was probably not a rustler at all, but a peaceable settler, and the other one they most barbarously hanged. More than this they attacked and valiantly tried to kill two settlers whom they met on the road—German farmers, with no connection, so far as known, with the thieves. These men escaped and gave the alarm. In a few hours the whole range was aflame with vengeance. The Forts, as you may recall, was like a swarm of horned devils. Every man and boy was armed and mounted. The storekeepers distributed guns and ammunition, leaders developed, and the embattled 'hunkin' rollers,' rustlers and townsmen rode out to meet the invaders."

The girl paled with memory of it. "It was terrible. I went all day without eating, and for two nights we were all too excited to sleep. It seemed as if the world were coming to an end. Mother cried because they wouldn't let her go with them. She didn't know father was leading the other army."

"She must have known soon, for it was reported that your father was among them. She certainly knew when they were driven to earth in that log fort, for they were obliged to restrain her by force from going to your father. As I run over those furious days it all seems incredible, like a sudden reversion to barbarism."

"How all that all came? The soldiers came, didn't they?"

"Yes, the long arm of Uncle Sam reached out and took hold upon the necks of both parties. I guess your father and his band would have died right there had not the regular army interfered. It only required a sergeant wearing Uncle Sam's uniform to come among those armed and furious cowboys and remove their prisoners."

"I saw that. It was very strange—that sergeant was so young and so brave."

He turned and smiled at her. "Do you know who that was?"

Her eyes flashed. She drew her breath with a gasp. "Was it Mr. Cavanagh?"

"Yes, it was Ross. He was serving in the regular army at the time. He has told me since that he felt no fear whatever. Uncle Sam's blue coat was like Stiefel's magic armor," he said. "It was the kind of thing the mounted police of Canada had been called upon to do many a time, and I went in and got my men. That ended the war, so far as violent measures went, and it really ended the sovereignty of the cattleman. The power of the 'rustler' has steadily increased from that moment."

"But my father—what became of him? They took him away to the east, and that is all I ever knew. What do you think became of him?"

"I could never make up my mind. All sorts of rumors came to us concerning him. As a matter of fact, the state authorities sympathized with the cattle barons, and my own opinion is that your father was permitted to escape. He was afterward seen in Texas, and later it was reported that he had been killed there."

The girl sat still, listening to the thrills which the machine and looking out at the purpling range with tearful eyes. At last she said, "I shall never think of my father as a bad man—he was always so gentle to me."

"You need not condemn him, my dear young lady. The people of the Forts, some of them, at least consider him a traitor and regard you as the daughter of a renegade, but what does it matter? Each year sees the old west disappearing, and already, in the work of the forest service, law and order advance. Notwithstanding all the shouting of rustlers and the beating to death of sheep, no hostile shot has ever been fired within the bounds of a national forest. In the work of the forest rangers lies the hope of ultimate peace and order over all the public lands."

The girl felt silent again, her mind filled with larger conceptions of life than her judgment had hitherto been called upon to meet. She knew that Redfield was right, and yet that world of the past, the world of the swift herdsman and his tramping, long horse, half wild knee still appealed to her imagination. The west of her girlhood, earnest her life in memory. Even the quiet account of it to which she had just listened could not conceal its epic largeness of movement. The part which troubled her most was her father's treachery to his neighbors. That he should fight, that he should kill men in honorable warfare, she could understand, but not his recanting, his desertion of her mother and herself.

She came back to dwell at last on the action of that slim young soldier who had calmly ridden through the infuriated mob. She remembered that she had thrilled even then at the vague and impersonal power which he represented. To her childish mind he seemed to bear a charm, like the heroes of her story books—something which made him invulnerable.

After a long pause Redfield spoke again. "The memory of your father will make life for a time a bit harder for you in hearing Fort. Perhaps your mother's advice is sound. Why not come to Sulphur City, which is almost entirely of the new spirit?"

"If I can get my mother to come, too, I will be glad to do so, for I hate the Fort. But I will not leave her there, sick and alone."

"Much depends upon the doctor's examination tomorrow."

They had talked to divide now between the Fort and Sulphur creek basin, and the green fields, the alfalfa meadows and the painted farmhouses clustered beneath them. Strange how significant all these signs were now! A few days ago they had appeared doubtful improvements; now they represented the menacing doubt of the east. They meant cleanliness and decent speech, good bread and sweet butter.

Redfield swept through the town, then turned up the stream directly toward the high wall of the range, which was rugged and abrupt at this point. They passed several charming farm houses, and the western sky grew ever more glorious with its plum color and saffron, and the range reassured its mastery over the girl. At last they came to the very jaws of the canyon, and there, in a deep natural grove of lofty cottonwood trees, Redfield marked before a high rustic gate which marked the beginning of his estate. The driveway was of gravel, and the intermingling of transplanted shrubs and pine trees showed the care of the professional gardener.

The house was far from being a castle. Indeed, it was very like a house in Bryn Mawr, except that it was built entirely of half hewn logs, with a wide projecting roof. Giant hydrangeas and other flowering shrubs bordered the drive, and on the rustic terrace a lady in white was waiting.

Redfield showed down and scrambled ungracefully out. But his voice was charming as he said, "Eleonor, this is Miss Wetherford. She was on the point of getting the blues, so I brought her away," he explained.

Mrs. Redfield, quite as urbane as the house, was a slim little woman of delicate habit, very far from the ordinary conception of a rancher's wife. Her manner was politely considerate, but not heatedly cordial (the visitor was not precisely herst, and though she warmed a little after looking into Virginia's face, she could not by any stretch of phrase be called cordial).

"Are you tired? Would you like to lie down before dinner?" she asked.

"Oh, no, indeed. Nothing ever tires me," Virginia responded, with a smile. "You look like one in perfect health," continued her hostess in the envious tone of one who knew all too well what ill health meant. "Let me show you to your room."

The house was not precisely the palace the cowboy had reported it to be, but it was charmingly decorated, and the furnishings were tasteful. To the girl it was as if she had been transported with instant magic from the horrible little row town back to the "ELEONOR, THIS IS MISS WETHERFORD," home of one of her dearest friends in Chester. She was at once excited and humbly grateful.

"We dine at 7," Mrs. Redfield was saying. "So you can take a cup of tea without spoiling your dinner. Will you venture it?"

"If you please."

"Very well, come down soon and I'll have it ready. Mr. Redfield, I'm sure, will want some."

Virginia's heart was dancing with delight of this home as she came down the stairs a little later. As they talked Mrs. Redfield studied the girl with increasing interest and favor and soon got at her point of view. She even secured a little more of her story which matched fairly well with the account her husband had given. Her prejudices were swept away, and she treated her young guest as one well born and well educated woman treats an other.

At last she said: "We dress for dinner, but any track you have will do. We are not mended in our rules. There will be some neighbors in, but it isn't in any sense a party."

Lee Virginia went to her room borne high upon a new conception of the possibilities of the west. It was glorious to think that one could enjoy the refinement, the comfort, of the east at the same time that one dwelt within the inspiring shadow of the range. Her hands were a tremble as she put on the bright muslin gown which was all she had for evening wear. She felt very much like the schoolgirl again, and after she had done her best to look nice she took a seat in the little rocker with intent to compose herself for her meeting with strangers. "I wish we were dining without visitors," she said as she heard a carriage drive up. A little later a galloping horse entered the yard and stopped at the door.

She heard voices in the hall and among them one with a very English accent, one that sounded precisely like those she had heard on the stage.

At last she dared wait no longer and taking courage from necessity, descended the stairs, a pleasant picture of vigorous yet somewhat maidenhood.

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This condition of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a lightness of step, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can get it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Slaughter of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their only family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. H. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

JUST A LITTLE MOTHER.

She's just a little mother in a cabin far away; Since I kissed her in the gloaming, 'tis forever and a day.

In my dreams I hear her calling, calling o'er the weary sea, "Come ye back to Ballyshannon, Katy, dear, come back to me."

She's standing in the doorway, filling up the space, With the kerchief o'er her bosom and the frills around her face; She is smiling as Our Lady smiles above the Holy Child, And my heart runs forth to meet her o'er the waste of water's wild.

Do you know our Ballyshannon, where the very winds are sweet With the saltiness of the sea foam and the tang of smoldering peat? Do you know our mists that fold us in a blanket soft and gray, Do you know our Ballyshannon in the red rose down of day?

Then you see the little mother, just herself, so small and old, With a look I'm sure would warm you were you shivering with the cold.

Oh, so marvellous, Oh, so patient, she whose work is never done, Oh, so ready with her laughter at the rise and set of sun.

In the great house where I'm serving folk are ever kind to me, But they do not guess my yearning for the cabin over the sea. Wage I earn and wage I send her, yet I cannot longer hide; I must seek my little mother, I must nestle at her side.

She's just a little mother in a cabin far away; Since I kissed her in the gloaming, 'tis forever and a day.

In my dreams she's calling, calling, "Mother, darling, yes, I'll come; I'll go back to Ballyshannon, to my mother and my home."

Marion Citizens Gladly Testify And Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Marion citizen:

Thomas L. Hilliard, Railroad St., Marion, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills came to my relief after I had suffered a great deal from kidney trouble and had spent much money for medicine without receiving any benefit. Two years ago I was taken with an attack of typhoid fever and upon recovering found that my kidneys were badly disordered. The pains in my back were so severe that frequently I had to leave my work and lie down for several hours. There was a constant desire to pass the kidney secretions and I was obliged to arise several times during the night. The kidney secretions were also highly colored and the passages were attended with pain. I became dizzy and dark spots floated before my eyes. A relative, hearing about my condition, advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and I procured a supply at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store. They cured me in less than two months. For over two years I have had no return attack of my old complaint and am bound to look upon my cure as a permanent one."

NEW SALEM.

Died March 13th, 1911, at the residence of her son-in-law, John Pace, of Salem, Ky., Mrs. Orlena Kirk, in her seventy-fourth year. Mrs. Kirk was among the oldest citizens of this section, having resided near New Salem for over half a century. She was the mother ten children and lived to see them all married. One of them died a few years ago, nine of them attended her funeral, five of them live in this county and four in Livingston county. She was the grandmother of forty-one grandchildren, the great grandmother of twenty-five great grandchildren. She was a Christian woman in every sense of the word, and was a member of the M. E. church at Tyner's Chapel, of which she had been a member every since that church was organized and when able to attend, her seat was never vacant. A large concourse of relatives and friends assembled at Tyner's Chapel on March 14th, to pay their last tribute of respect to this good old Christian woman. A most appropriate funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Smith, of the M. E. church, after which her remains were laid to rest by the side of her husband, John T. Kirk, in the church yard at Tyner's Chapel to await the morning of the resurrection.

Byron W. King.

Byron W. King the king of the platform will deliver his famous lecture "What Fools These Mortals Be," in the Auditorium Wednesday night, March 20, at eight o'clock. There is not a man on the platform today who excels Mr. King in power to portray humor and pathos, or is more versatile in every phase of dramatic art.

This is not one of the regular numbers on the Lyceum course because it was secured after the others had been contracted. But those holding season tickets may secure tickets at forty cents if they will present their season tickets at the window when they buy. Tickets must be presented to get the reduction. General admission fifty cents. School children thirty-five cents.

On the account of not being prepared to take care of the large amount of eggs that I am now getting from my poultry which is about twelve hundred to fifteen hundred eggs monthly, and I am only prepared to take care of five hundred every twenty one days, in my incubators, so, I concluded to offer these eggs from High Class Birds, to parties near home rather than to advertise them in papers out of my own State at a remarkably low price of seventy-five cents per setting of fifteen, delivered at the following places in Crittenden and Livingston counties.

MARION, TOLU, SHERIDAN, SHADY GROVE, SALEM, CARRSVILLE, SMITHLAND, PINKNEYVILLE, LOLA AND HAMPTON.

The above price is hardly one half of what these eggs would cost you should you purchase them from poultry people in other states who have the full blood, and if I was prepared to take care of them all, not a penny less than one dollar and twenty-five cents would buy them. I would be pleased to have any one call and investigate my stock, if they so desire to see for themselves whether I have what I claim in this line or not. Write or Call.

W. S. LOWERY, Marion, Ky.
